Course Description

Facilitating Financial Health is a one-of-a-kind course that bridges the gap between financial planners and mental health practitioners. The authors, two mental health professionals and a CFP®-designated financial planner, pioneered the use of tools that help clients build healthy relationships with money.

This concise yet comprehensive Guide enables financial planning and mental health practitioners to effectively integrate tools from the fields of psychotherapy, life coaching, and financial planning as they help their clients change destructive financial behaviors.

Learning Objectives

As a result of studying the course-book, you should be able to meet the following learning objectives:

- Address your clients' money-driven problems, from both financial planning and mental health perspectives
- Learn the best techniques and recognize when to call in help from outside your field when dealing with clients' financial issues
- Focus on both interior (emotional and intangible aspects of money) as well as exterior (the tangible "nuts and bolts" of financial planning) financial health topics
- Explore "Money Scripts" – beliefs about money commonly held by clients, financial planners, and therapists that can lead to destructive financial habits
- More effectively work with individuals and couples on difficult financial health topics
