Course Description

This course provides CFP® and CDFA® professionals with an overview of divorce. In order to better serve financial planning clients who are going through a divorce, practitioners must understand the legal, financial, and personal decisions that their clients must make and the implications that these decisions have for the planning process. Written by a retired divorce attorney and a widely-published author on the subject, the course covers everything from the steps in a divorce to dividing assets and debts. It looks at divorce from all angles—legal, social, psychological, and financial.
